

A meeting of musical friends, and a rare opportunity to hear them both as solo artists and in collaboration. Earlier this year, Inni-K spent time in Japan, where Hajime organised a concert and workshop with her in Gunma. United by a shared love of traditional music and also a curiosity for exploring new sounds and ideas, the two artists left inspired to continue creating together.

Inni-K

Singer, multi-instrumentalist, composer, and songwriter whose music draws from her extensive background in sean-nós and traditional Irish music, even as she ventures into new and exciting musical territories. Her latest album 'Still A Day' was released in September 2025.

“One of Ireland’s most exciting artists” The Irish Times

“One of the most acclaimed voices in the extraordinary revival of traditional and folk music we have witnessed in recent years.” RTÉ Radio 1, Arena Inni-K

Hajime Takahashi

Hajime is well known amongst Irish traditional musicians, having spent 7 years living in Ireland and gaining huge respect for his virtuoso guitar playing. He currently lives in Gunma, Japan.